ROSEMARY: That boy from the other night just dropped this off for you. He seems like a nice kid. He seemed a little... incredibly gay.

I dated a homosexual in high school. I just wanted to tell you that if you want to date a gay boy, your father and I are totally supportive. We love you no matter what the sexual orientation of your opposite-sex sex partner. And don't feel bad that you won't make us grandparents. We still have Ginger, and from the signs I'm picking up, she'll be preggo before the PSATs. Which is actually great 'cause then we can get another shot at raising kids. Really do it right this time.
